

The Caesars—short bio

Drs. Lael and Lena G. Caesar are seasoned servant-campaigners for God's good news of salvation and the victory of the cross. Lena's doctoral degrees in Special Education and in Speech-Language Pathology, and Lael's in Hebrew and Semitic Studies, have enabled them to train and mentor hundreds of Adventist and other young people, on their path to realizing their full potential for becoming the persons that God intended them to be.

As frequently invited presenters at academic, professional and church-related events, they have spoken with equal passion for their Lord to audiences of a dozen people or thousands of attendees, in countries of the Caribbean, North America, Asia, eastern and western Europe, and nations of the South Pacific. Their decades of teaching include 15 years at Andrews University. And their teaching, scholarly and professional publications, academic administration and missionary service, have been spent together in a honeymoon of love that is now almost five decades sweet and long. At present, Lena is an associate professor of speech-language-hearing sciences at Loyola University, Baltimore, MD, and Lael is an associate editor with Adventist Review Ministries at the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, Silver Spring, MD. Lena and Lael are the parents of two adult children and one granddaughter.
